Silk Stocking Whiggery.

Silk Stockings, we presume are a comfortable, a hundred Whigs in our City who have in forme cleanly article of apparel; we find no fault with them. Of course, we differ with no man, are jealous have been asked of them-in aid of the White of no man, on account of this or any other portion of Cause. There are ten to twenty times as many his dress; every man to his taste. That some men who ought to have done something, but never did are richer than we and others are, is their right, and far be it from us to quarrel with the more fortunate therefor, or excite ill feeling between them and Ward Committee to rid themselves of importunity The few who gave freely have been worn out, a their poorer fellow-citizens. Diversities of fortune exist, and will exist; some of us must work for our bread, while others are exempt from the necessity but one class is essential to the other, and we insist that the same policy, the same measures, that are needed to ensure prosperity and comfort to the one class are also best calculated to promote the welbuted or expended in this City by the Whigs t fare of the other. We could wish that all may be brought to realize this more heartily than any by the friends of two or three of our candidates es

That a portion of our wealthier citizens should deem themselves exempted, by their social position, from any obligation to take a direct and actual part in the labors of a Political canvass, is perhaps to be regretted rather than complained of. We cannot think that any man would suffer in character or dignity by giving a good day's work twice a year at the Polls to sustain those principles and measures which he believes essential to the conservation of True Liberty, Public Order and National Prosperity. We believe no capitalist, scholar, gentleman of elegant leisure, or clergyman even, could find himself in better business than in doing his fair share of straight-forward work to get the car of State on the right track or keep it there. If our Politics are degraded, irreligious, sordid, corrupting, let the pure, the pious, the unselfish, the men of generous and lofty aims, take hold and lift them out of the mire into which they have fallen. Let them teach or shame us who, after the best fashion we know. now try to keep things as they should be. No amount of wealth, no peculiarity of position, no social elevation, can rightfully exempt any man who sees fit to live in a republic from the duty of acting well and faithfully his part as a citizen, an elector, a rational, responsible being bound to take care that the Commonwealth receive no detriment when he has power to prevent it.

That some men should think actual 'electioneering,' as it is termed, unworthy of or beneath them. is to be regretted, but that any one should deem himself justified in refusing even to vote except fitfully, when he is specially incited so to do is amentable-and not that merely, but culpable He is in the same boat with the man who refuses to pay his taxes or runs off and hides in a cellar or coal-hole when he hears that the Country is invaded. No man can relieve himself of the obligation to vote, except by leaving, a land of freedom for a despotism. No man can absolve himself from the tacit obligations of each citizen of a commonwealth to every other, unless by leaving that common-He who, being born and cramped by the necessity of daily toil for daily bread, lets an election pass unattended, has an excuse , but the man of wealth, unless confined by ill health, has none -He has no more right to shirk the faithful and punctual discharge of the Political duties required of the citizen by the genius of the Government under which he lives than he has to refuse to hear a share in keeping up fences between his own fields and his neighbors', or to assist in stopping a fire which threatens to destroy his own property

'All this is very obvious,' says the reader; 'what need of stating it ? We answer Look at the returns of the recent Election; see J. Phillips Phanix defeated for Congress by 50 votes, when ten times that number of Whirs-most of them men of intel ligence, character and property-spent the day within a stone's cast of the Polls yet refused or Think of Col. M onroe's defeat by 170 votes, after a most gallant and spirited canvess on his part while at least five times the requisite number of Whigs living in the District took care not to do so vulgar an act as to vote. Think of the defeat of Willis Hall for County Clerk, when at least five times enough Whig votes to elect him remain unpolled in the City. Think how little manhood there must be in any one who calls himself a Whig and vet would not take the trouble to cast a vote for Willis Hall! Who would risk the liberties or welfare of his country in the hards of such men if the price of a bale of cotton could be made by betraying them? mere voting is not all. There are labors to be perof their paltry dollars was needed or asked to elect formed in the proper conduct of Political affairs. When such men had consented or rather

Here is a touchstone which distinguishes men from mice. Nobody is or can be obliged to give a farthing for any party purpose. Yet, to conduct an Election here with any rational hope of success. public halls must be hired and lighted handbills must be printed and posted; eminent speakers ought occasionally to be invited from a distance and their expenses paid; Wards should be carefully canvassed by election districts and blocks and accurate alphabetical lists of all the legal voters think of these things. If they say there should not to challenge every man beside who may offer a vote. Stout, fearless challengers and electioneerers should attend at every poll, and if proper men insufficiency do not see fit to give their time and risk their limbs enough should be hired to see that the Legal Voters have fair play. For example, in the Cherry st. District of the Fourth Ward. Wright and Nicoll have something over 400 majority out of some 500 votes. When this return came in, we asked a Fourth Warder what it meant. O! we had no challengers there, and no Inspector, and they polled just as may votes as they chose. 'But why had llengers ! . Why, it was as much as a man's life was worth to venture a challenge there. -Now we say, if one Whig could not safely strand there to challenge the motley crew of five day residents in the City who swarm at that poll, there should have been enough of us there to make it perfectly safe to challenge, and to ensure peace and order throughout. One hundred resolute men would have answered the purpose; and for want of them Mr. Phonix is defeated in a District where there is a Whig majority of at least five hundred whenever all the legal votes are polled and none other. So of the five hundred majority for Silas Wright and Maclay at the Five Points. If the Strate Prison convicts and other bad voters had been effectually shut out from that poll, the majority must have been much reduced. But we canner a expect the fifty or sixty Whigs residing in either of these Districtions. The poll is the matter is mutual? overwhelmed by the votes fraudulently thrown in these dens of moral and political darkness, and if the men of property do not choose to perform personally their share of this duty, they should be willing to compensate the woodsawyer, cartman and day laborer who are willing to do the work but cannot afford to lose the time. Let these latter do their part, but do not ask them to do the whole. We ought to have carriages also to bring up feeble, lame or invalid voters. We do not hesitate to say that a State Election cannot be contested as it should be in our City without an aggregate expenditure of at least ten thousand dollars, and of this sam not one farthing shall be paid for any purpose that we would not cheerfully have writter But this amount, if it be had, must be contribut
